What Does Tier III Intervention Look Like? ~ Micah and Elizabeth

As an Interventionist - It is teaching a small group focused on reteaching previous grade level standards that were not mastered.

As a Teacher - It is a collaboration with an interventionist to deliver targeted lessons to meet the student's needs.

As a Student - It is a small group time where math or reading can be fun through games and lessons at their instructional level.

What Does Parallel Teaching and Co-Teaching Look Like During Whole Group Instruction Time? Micah and Elizabeth

Parallel Teaching - The class is divided into two groups. The same material is taught but in smaller groups.

Advantages to this teaching style is it allows the material to be taught at a slower or faster pace to meet the needs of the students. It also allows teachers to better assess and observe their students' mastery of the material being taught.
